Why Study Social Work at EWU?

We dedicated to promoting leadership in engaging individuals, families, and communities; policy-making; research; and, education for social work professionals. The Department of Social Work prepares its graduates to be ethical and effective change agents at the intersection of families, cultures, communities, and organizations. We are especially committed to educating first-generation college students and those from underserved communities. Graduates will practice with mindfulness about historical oppression and hopefulness in fostering a more socially just world.

Career Opportunities

Professional social workers help people with some of life's most challenging problems: abuse, mental and physical illness, loss, divorce, discrimination, unemployment, and poverty. They help individuals and families deal with crises as well as the everyday challenges of life. They help organizations work more effectively and efficiently to fulfill agency missions and meet goals. They promote societal change to improve the lives of all people. Social Workers work in a variety of settings including: hospitals and clinics, nursing homes, community mental health clinics, child welfare agencies, state and local governments, schools, colleges and

Accreditation

The School of Social Work at Eastern Washington University is accredited at the baccalaureate and master's levels by the Council on Social Work Education.
