

Commencement

The names published in this commencement program include all students who earned a doctorate, educational specialist, master's or baccalaureate degree fall terms 2020 or winter terms 2021, and any student who applied for a degree for spring terms 2021 or summer terms 2021 by the posted deadline.

Participation in commencement and inclusion in the commencement program do not guarantee official granting of a degree. The Graduate Programs Office (doctorate, educational specialist, master's) and the Records and Registration Office (baccalaureate) verify completion of all coursework before a degree is conferred. The official document verifying degree completion is the official Eastern Washington University transcript.

This event provides an opportunity for celebration, gratitude and reflection. In the midst of our celebration, we ask that you take a moment of silence to acknowledge the service, compassion and dedication of our faculty and staff members who are not with us today.

A HISTORY OF EASTERN WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

In 1882, the Benjamin P. Cheney Academy opened its doors to more than 200 enrolling students. A generous contribution of $10,000 from a wealthy transportation industrialist had at last fulfilled the dreams of Cheney citizens for an institute of higher learning in their community.

The academy became the State Normal School at Cheney in 1889, the same year in which Washington was given its statehood. The school was proudly designated as an institution “for the purpose of instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching the various branches that pertain to a good common school.”

By the time it became Eastern Washington College of Education in 1937, Eastern was already a fully accredited four-year degree-granting institution, offering majors in numerous subjects.

The campus grew rapidly in size and program offerings in the decades following World War II. In 1961, the name was again changed, this time to Eastern Washington State College. It was increasingly evident that the region needed professionals in many fields; in response, a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs were added. Finally, in 1977, the name was changed to Eastern Washington University by the state legislature.

As a regional university, Eastern is charged with the special responsibility of meeting the undergraduate and graduate educational needs of the region’s people.

To that end, program areas have grown and been redefined as the needs of the Inland Northwest have grown and changed. Master’s programs have been added to meet the need for graduate-level education, and individual programs and schools have increasingly been granted accreditation by their respective oversight organizations as those programs and schools have grown and matured.

Today, Eastern students represent nearly every state in the union and more than 40 foreign countries. More than 100 different academic majors are available, offering students a wide variety of career-path options.

Nearly 600 full-time and adjunct faculty teach on the Cheney campus and at several locations throughout the state. Three-quarters of Eastern’s full-time faculty members hold doctorate degrees. With a low student-to-faculty ratio, Eastern continues to stress small classes, personalized instruction and individual attention.

Perhaps even more significant than Eastern’s steady advancement during the past 135 years is the university’s expanded regional role and its evolving goals, objectives and vision of its future.

In the past decade, Eastern Washington University has become a major force in the state and the Pacific Northwest, not only in the education of more than 12,000 students each year, but in the civic, cultural, scientific and economic development of the state and region.

GRADUATION WITH ACADEMIC HONORS

Undergraduate students who have demonstrated exceptional academic performance are honored in the commencement program listing.

Summa Cum Laude: Seniors who have a cumulative grade point average of 3.90-4.00-Gold Honors Cord.

Magna Cum Laude: Seniors who have a grade point average of 3.70-3.89-Silver Honors Cord.

Cum Laude: Seniors who have a grade point average of 3.50-3.69-Red and White Honors Cord.

University Honors: Seniors who completed special course work requirements through the Honors Program-Purple Honors Cord.

UNIVERSITY MACE

The tradition of a ceremonial mace for academic institutions goes back to medieval times. Adapted in form from the ancient battle weapon used by knights, the ceremonial mace symbolized the authority of regal personages, city or shire ruling bodies and chief officers of chartered institutions.

Originally representing vested authority during all official meetings, it eventually came to be connected mainly with formal ceremonies. In academic institutions, this is usually in conjunction with an academic procession, where the mace is carried at the head of the line of march or just before the platform party.

The form of the ceremonial mace has remained fairly consistent over the centuries. Design often reflects the period of creation, especially in the elaboration of ornamentation. Gold, silver and dark wood are traditional materials.

Eastern's mace, commissioned as a gift during the centennial year to the university by former and present members of the EWU Board of Trustees, was created by artist-craftsman Clifford Gaynard after a region-wide design competition. Its polished silver head in flowing cuplike form carries the university seal. The dark rosewood shaft with upper and medial gold-plated bosses is gently curved into the terminal silver cap at the bottom.

Although the modern design departs from the traditional straight and elaborately ornamented pattern, it retains a full effect of balance, dignity and decorum, while capturing the flowing lines typical of the eastern Washington landscape.

A permanent display case for the Eastern Washington University mace is located in the Office of the President.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The regalia worn for formal academic ceremonies such as commencements are patterned after the gowns and hoods worn regularly in the Middle Ages by scholars for warmth in unheated buildings and as distinguishing dress denoting their place in society.

A great variety of designs and colors developed over the years in the costumes worn at different universities. Since 1895 in the United States, a uniform intercollegiate code of style and colors has been adhered to by most institutions.

In accordance with this code, most academic gowns are black, although some universities permit other solid colors. Occasionally, the robe color may indicate a professional distinction, such as deep purple for law or scarlet for ecclesiastical honors. Adaptations of the academic costume for high schools have sometimes used colors other than black for purely decorative purposes. Sometimes a distinguishing device on the robe or cap indicates an individual honor or a special occasion.

The baccalaureate gown is of simple cut with full, somewhat pointed sleeves. The front is closed and often no hood is worn with this gown. The mortar board head covering originated in ancient Greece, symbolizing the commitment of the scholar to a life of building. It has either a plain black tassel or one of a color indicating the subject area of the degree. The custom of shifting the cap's tassel from right to left at the time of awarding the degree is used in lieu of investing each candidate with the bachelor's hood.

The master's gown is similar to the bachelor's gown, except that the sleeves are fuller, cut square with a half-circle at the bottom and sometimes worn with the arms through a horizontal slit at elbow level.

The doctoral robe is ampler in cut with a full bell-shaped sleeve, velvet panel edging in the front and three velvet stripes on each sleeve. The velvet trim may be black or in the color appropriate to the degree. The mortar board tassel for the doctorate is gold. Some American and many foreign universities use cap forms other than the mortar board, ranging from a soft velvet beret to more elaborate fringed styles, each of which has its own historical tradition.

Hoods worn over the gowns have a velvet edging, usually in a color indicating the specific degree and a lining which is partially turned out to show the colors of the college or university which granted the degree.

Some of the colors used for tassels and velvet panels to designate the degree are:

Addiction Studies	White
Arts and Letters	White
Business	Drab
Dentistry	Lilac
Economics	Copper
Education	Light Blue
Engineering	Orange
Fine Arts, Architecture and Urban and Regional Planning	Brown
Journalism	Crimson

Vincent Aleccia

Professor Vincent A. Aleccia has been an educator for 45 years. Starting in 1976, he spent three decades as a secondary English, journalism and social studies teacher at high schools in California and Oregon, before earning a doctorate in education from George Fox University in 2007 and embarking on a new path in higher education at EWU.

During his secondary career, he sought out new experiences in the U.S. and abroad. He was selected as a Fulbright Exchange Teacher and taught for a year in the United Kingdom. He was recognized as a National Board Certified Teacher in language arts and later served as curriculum director in the Medford, Ore., School District. He taught English and writing classes at Southern Oregon State College. Throughout his tenure, he served as an inspiration for students and a mentor for new instructors.

Dr. Aleccia arrived at EWU in 2006 as an assistant professor of education. During his time at the university, he taught 21 different courses and assumed several roles, including graduate director, director of the off-campus MED Program and supervisor of student teachers. He expanded the department's College Instruction program and served on numerous faculty evaluation and hiring committees.

He was granted tenure and promoted to associate professor in 2012, having published articles in several academic journals and making numerous presentations at conferences. In 2010, he was recognized with the EWU Outstanding Faculty Award in Teaching.

Promoted to full professor in 2017, Vince has continued his research on the historical aspects of education, especially higher education, as well as educational sociology and the philosophy of education. He has been married to his wife, JoNel Aleccia, a health journalist, for 40 years. They have two children and four grandchildren.

Barbara Alvin

Barbara Alvin received her AB in Spanish, with a minor in mathematics from Miami University, in Oxford, Ohio, in 1974. She also received a Master of Science in Mathematics from Miami University in 1976. After teaching Spanish and geometry in a junior-senior high school in Oakwood, Ohio for a year, she enrolled in a program in Biostatistics at the University of Washington, where she received her PhD in 1983. While completing her PhD, she taught mathematics for a year at Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma, Washington. Dr. Alvin began teaching mathematics at EWU in September, 1983. As a faculty member in the Department of Mathematics, she has taught service courses in mathematics, a broad range of undergraduate courses for mathematics majors, and courses in the Master's in Mathematics program.

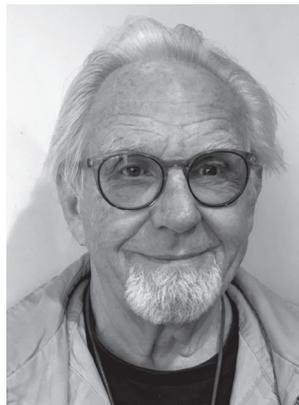

Alvin served as a statistical consultant in several settings. She consulted with several faculty in other disciplines at EWU on the statistical analyses included in their research. She was hired as a statistical I consultant to the Intercollegiate Center for Nursing Education, where she consulted with faculty and graduate students between January 1988 and January 1993. Also, in the summer of 1989, she was a participant in a summer faculty research program sponsored by the Air Force and Universal Energy Systems. Her work included statistical analysis of data on ground water contamination. Dr. Alvin's experience as a statistical consultant provided her with examples she used in her teaching of statistics at EWU.

Dr. Alvin served as the director of Academic Assessment at EWU from January, 1993 through June 1996. Her interest in that role was tied to her strong interest in examining and improving the level of students' achievement of goals faculty have for their learning and understanding.

In September, 1996, she began to take an active role on university committees and councils. In addition to serving as a member and then chair of the Course and Program Approval Committee, she served as chair of the Undergraduate Affairs Council, chair of the Faculty Planning Advisory Council, secretary, vice president, and then president of the Faculty Organization. She later served as vice president for labor management for the United Faculty of Eastern, and she served on the bargaining committee for the UFE. Alvin's service at EWU also includes serving for eight years as chair of the department of mathematics.

Tom Askman

Tom Askman, Professor of Art, joined the Art Department at EWU in 1972. His main role as the Head of Painting continued throughout his tenure, accompanied with considerable contributions to the art program at EWU. Notably, his passion for student excellence was demonstrated in his efforts to establish a Bachelor of Fine Art's Degree (BFA).

This program continues to effectively prepare EWU art students to complete nationally competitive MFA programs. Though dedicated to providing students a rigorous academic experience in the BFA program, Tom's first goal in teaching is for students to discover and accept their intuitive intelligence. His students often claim that it was in his classroom that they first experienced complete creative freedom.

In addition to his dedication to teaching, Professor Askman has an impressive legacy of scholarship. In the first ten years of his professional career, Tom's work was exhibited at venues such as Minneapolis Art Institute, Joslyn Art Museum, Cincinnati Contemporary Arts Center, the Cheney Cowles Museum, and the Whitney Museum of American Art. In 1979, Professor Askman shifted his focus from individual exhibitions to public art. For the next 30 years, Tom has been prolific in securing public art commissions across the United States. He has public art installed in California, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon, Texas, Florida, Ohio, Kansas, Alaska, Connecticut, Georgia, Iowa, and Maryland.

Tom is also an active participant in community service, donating his time for nonprofit organizations such as Meals on Wheels and Warriors Heart to Art. In 2018 he was an Art Coordinator for the Warriors Heart to Art Retreat, an intensive four days that focused on veterans affected by PTSD using art to tell their stories. Though Professor Askman has a lucrative and successful career as an artist, his foremost interest is sharing the transformative and healing experiences that can be achieved through the act of making art.

David Bunting

Beginning in 1971 David Bunting was successively a visiting, assistant, associate and full professor in the Department of Economics. He earned a BS and an MA from Ohio State, an MS from Wisconsin and a PhD from Oregon with a dissertation topic, Rise of Large American Corporations: 1889-1919, later published as a book.

Beyond the usual introductory courses, he taught intermediate economic theory, American Economic history, money and banking, and senior capstone. Some of his students went on to earn graduate degrees. His teaching efforts were recognized as a Dean's Honor Faculty.

He was an active scholar and researcher during his entire academic career beginning with investigating interlocking directorates and economic power in the American corporate network. Later, he investigated the macroeconomic aspects of household consumption and saving behavior and the effects of the income distribution on savings. Other topics included the effects of an Indian reservation termination, higher education attendance costs and recovery of economic damages. He also served as a referee of scholarly papers, book reviewer, associate editor and member of professional organizations, serving as presenter, session chair and paper commentator. Results of his work were published in leading academic journals and/or presented at regional, national or international conferences.

He also conducted a number of studies of electricity demand by regional public utilities and economic impact studies of regional activities such as higher education, healthcare, the aluminum industry, the Spokane Arts industry, and the regional airport. Some of this work received special awards or presented at national conferences.

During his career at EWU he was actively engaged in departmental and university management and governance, twice serving as Economics Department chair. He was member of university committees including the General Education Committee, University Budget Committee, Faculty Senate, and Undergraduate Affairs Council (Chair).

Jeff Corkill

Jeff Corkill was born in the Isle of Man, British Isles and grew up in the north of England. He obtained a degree in the Natural Sciences-Chemistry at University of Cambridge's Churchill College. He moved on Seattle in the 1960s and studied organic chemistry at the University of Washington receiving a Master's degree. After working in a research laboratory at the University of Washington School of Medicine he returned to England. There he carried out research on the metabolism of the compounds used as cement in hip and knee replacement operations for which he was awarded a Ph.D. Before arriving at Eastern in 1981, he was involved in biomedical research at the City of Hope National Medical Center, Pasadena, CA and Northeastern University in Boston, MA.

During the 39 years, he has been in Eastern's Chemistry and Biochemistry Department, he taught mainly organic and bio chemistry at both the lower and upper division levels. He was the advisor for many pre-medical, pre-dental, pre veterinary and pre-pharmacy students. He engaged many students in research projects the involved food chemistry, regional water and air quality, green chemistry synthesis.

He taught biochemistry to medical students in the University of Washington School of Medicine WWAMI program at both the WSU and UW Spokane campuses.

During his time at EWU, he served on many departmental, college, university and. state committees. He served as President of the Faculty Senate, was President of the United Faculty of Eastern and was involved in the development of three UFE/EWU Collective Bargaining Agreements. He representd EWU on the state-wide Council of Faculty Representatives and on the Higher Education Coordinate Board Advisory committee.

His last salvo at EWU was last summer on retiring was to produced 40 liters of "Eagle Sanitizer" with Dr. Fred Joslin (Chemistry Department manager), EWU Design student Danielle Flinn , EWU Marketing and Relations personnel, that was distributed to the Cheney and Spokane communities (police, firemen, Veterans' Home, Catholic Charities, Venessa Behan Nursery, 2nd Harvest, several senior residential & homeless shelter establishments).

Jeff Donnerberg

Jeff Donnerberg joined the EWU Engineering & Design Department in 1990 as an Assistant Professor. Donnerberg received his BS in Industrial Education & Technology from Bowling Green State University in 1982, his MA in Industrial Education with an emphasis in Industrial Training from the University of Minnesota (U of M) in 1986, and his EdD in Vocational Education from the U of M in 1993.

During his tenure at EWU he taught numerous classes in the Manufacturing Technology, Construction Management Technology, and Technology Education programs. He was awarded the chairs "Excellence Award for Teaching" in 2007 and voted as first runner-up for "Faculty of the Year" by the Associated Students of Eastern Washington University in 1996 & 2001.

Martine Duchatelet

Martine Duchatelet holds a bachelor's degree in economics and the master's degree in econometrics from Brussels Free University. After two years as a research assistant with the University of Louvain Center for Econometrics and Operations Research, she attended Stanford University as a Harkness Fellow and earned a doctorate in economics in 1977.

Dr. Duchatelet then married an American, became a citizen and raised three children while pursuing a career as a faculty member at the University of Virginia, Columbia University, Hunter College, Baruch College, Fordham University and Barry University. She joined the EWU faculty in June 2012 as dean of what was then the College of Business and Public Administration. She stepped down from administration and joined the economics faculty in 2017. At Eastern she has taught principles of microeconomics, sustainability economics, economics of poverty and discrimination, political economy, as well as special topics.

Dr. Duchatelet's early career intellectual contributions focused on applied microeconomics in general, and industrial organization in particular. She has published in peer-reviewed outlets such as the Journal of Economic Theory, the International Journal of Industrial Organization, the American Business Review, the International Journal of Knowledge, Culture and Change Management, the Southern Business and Economics Journal, and others. She has also made numerous presentations at local, national and international conferences, including those of the American Economic Association and the Western Economic Association International. She has written and published business cases in journals, as book chapters and for the European Case Clearing House. In addition, she has served as reviewer for grants or publications and as session chair or discussant at many academic meetings.

As an instructor, Dr. Duchatelet gained many positive evaluations while leaving "few students indifferent." When it comes to retirement, she adds, "What counts are the positive memories of working with supportive colleagues and enthusiastic students! It has been quite a ride."

Raphael M. Guillory

Dr. Raphael Guillory served for 18 years as Professor in the Department of Counseling, Educational, and Developmental Psychology/ Psychology. During his too short time with us he made innumerable positive impacts. Dr. Guillory consistently encouraged the department to be forward thinking and progressive, and was a constant source of advocacy for those less privileged. Dr. Guillory was the voice of reason as well as vision.

Dr. Guillory earned his PhD in Education, with an emphasis in Higher Education Administration, and a MS in Counseling Psychology from Washington State University. He completed his BS in Sociology at EWU and was a proud Eagle.

Dr. Guillory was a respected professor. He provided foundational courses for students in the Applied Developmental Psychology BS and contributed to the professional development of countless teachers in the K-12 system through his Educational Psychology course. In addition to his clear commitment to students, he was an influential administrator. He served as Acting Department Chair and held the position of Interim Director of Chicano Education. He held the elected position of Vice President and then President of the Faculty Organization of EWU and was a member of the EWU Foundation Board of Directors.

As a scholar, Dr. Guillory had multiple publications focused on important diversity issues, including the bullying of students from diverse backgrounds and ways to support these individuals in their educational aspirations. His list of publications is long, including a recently completed book, American Indian/Alaska Native student persistent factors and barriers at large urban universities. He presented several workshops at conferences and for community groups over the years, including Spokane Public Schools, was involved in securing the College Assistance Migrant Program (CAMP) grant, and served as reviewer for professional journals. His scholarship was wide-reaching and undoubtedly has had many important results. In addition to his scholarship and teaching, Dr. Guillory was a valued and supportive colleague throughout the University. He was a celebrated EWU athlete and a loyal fan of EWU athletics. He was an extremely proud father and husband who never failed to share and celebrate their accomplishments.

Christopher Howell

Professor Christopher Howell joined the Faculty in 1996 and has been a key contributor to the MFA at EWU and the national literary scene ever since.

As a teacher, Professor Howell has had an enormous impact. Four of his students have gone on to publish poems in the annual Best American Poetry anthology, perhaps the single highest annual honor an individual poem can receive. His students have gone on to publish more than a hundred books, including many with the country's top presses. Dozens of his former students have gone on to tenure-track academic teaching careers; dozens more now work in the literary, academic, and commercial publishing industry. Yet others have found meaningful work as leaders in literary and arts organizations and community nonprofits. Many, of course, have pursued careers and interests outside the literary and academic fields. But whatever paths Professor Howell helped them find for themselves, instruction in poetry afforded all his students in his twenty-five years at Eastern Washington University deeper capacities for empathy, insight, and experience, as well as richer and fuller psychological and spiritual lives.

As an editor, Professor Howell has brought national literary significance to EWU through his editing and editing internship instruction and supervision. Poets he has edited have won literally every major literary award in the country.

As a writer, Professor Howell is himself among the most artistically resonant, wide-ranging, and moving poets of his generation. His many awards include two National Endowment for the Arts Creative Writing Fellowship, three Pushcart Prizes, a Washington State Book Award, a Washington Governor's Award, a Nebraska Book Award, and a Best of the Net Award.

We have been fortunate to call Professor Howell a colleague, a teacher, and a friend.

Kosuke Imamura

Professor Kosuke Imamura has been with EWU for 17 years. He taught courses in computer architecture, image processing, operating systems, and network programming. He has also taught summer courses in I/O sub-systems, stochastic simulation, and field programmable gate arrays (FPGA) at Iwate Prefectural University Graduate School since 2012.

Prior to becoming an EWU professor, he was an embedded systems engineer. He worked flight simulators, medical patient monitors, and high speed industrial printers among others.

His primary areas of research and publication include machine learning, embedded computer systems, and FPGA. Professor Imamura received his PhD in computer science from University of Idaho.

He enjoys skiing and coaches a youth alpine ski racing team.

Tom Karier

With a PhD in economics from the University of California at Berkeley, Tom Karier spent forty productive and eventful years at Eastern Washington University.

Professor Karier authored three books addressing issues in microeconomics (Beyond Competition), macroeconomics (Great Experiments in American Economic Policy), and the history of economic ideas (Intellectual Capital). Commenting on the most recent book, George Akerlof, Nobel Laureate 2001, wrote, “Karier thus gives an easy and lively introduction to a difficult subject: what is modern economics, and what motivates it.”

He also authored about two dozen refereed articles for academic journals covering topics of labor unions, international trade, the ideas of John Kenneth Galbraith, the Columbia River Treaty, energy conservation, and power planning. His last seven articles in the Electricity Journal addressed a variety of technical issues related to energy efficiency and carbon reduction.

As a result of Professor’s Karier’s scholarly achievements, he was invited to testify before U.S. congressional committees, twice. The first was a House Field Hearing in Portland on the West Coast energy crisis of 2000 and the second at a Senate committee hearing in Washington D.C. on the Columbia River Treaty including participation by Northwest senators.

Over the course of 20 years he also wrote numerous OpEd articles on energy issues and the Columbia River Treaty for the Seattle Times, The Oregonian, the Spokesman Review, the Tacoma Tribune, the Wenatchee World, and other regional newspapers.

With all his scholarly accomplishments, Professor Karier’s priority was always his students who he encouraged to be as curious as he was about the world of economics.

Mary Ann Keogh Hoss

Mary Ann Keogh Hoss is a professor and program director for Health Services Administration in the College of Health Science and Public Health, Department of Public Health and Health Administration at Eastern Washington University in Spokane, Washington. She has served as the program director for the Health Services Administration program since 2002. She received a PhD from Gonzaga University in 1986. She received her Master degree from Eastern Washington University in 1977 and her bachelor degree from Creighton University in 1974. She has fellow status in the American College of Healthcare Executive. She is certified nationally as a therapeutic recreation specialist and has fellow status.

Dr. Keogh Hoss has over 30 years of experience in the health care administration before coming to Eastern Washington University. She also served as an interim CEO on 2 occasions a decade apart for an 800 bed state psychiatric hospital, Western State Hospital in Ft. Steilacuum, Washington during her tenure at Eastern Washington University. She felt this allowed her to keep her administration skills current. During her tenure at Eastern Washington University, she has served a number of interim roles at the university including dean of 2 colleges and provost.

Her research interest include healthcare costs and delivery systems, mental health services, healthcare reimbursement, outcomes in therapeutic recreation, female healthcare leadership and medical travel/tourism. She is published in a variety areas.

Elizabeth Arveda Kissling

Elizabeth Arveda Kissling served as professor of Gender, Women's & Sexuality Studies (GWSS) and Communication Studies from 1993 to 2020. Kissling earned her master's degree and doctorate in Speech Communication from University of Illinois before beginning her career at Eastern Washington University. She was awarded tenure and served a four-year term as Chair of the Communication Studies department. Kissling was affiliated with Women's Studies/Women's and Gender, Studies/Gender, Women's & Sexuality Studies throughout her career. In 2006, she shifted into a joint position between Communication Studies and Women's & Gender Studies. In summer of 2012 and spring of 2014, she served as Interim Director of Women's & Gender Studies.

Kissling is known and respected nationwide for her cutting-edge scholarly work including three monographs and edited texts: Palgrave Handbook of Critical Menstruation Studies (2020); From a Whisper to a Shout: Abortion Activism and Social Media (2018); and Capitalizing on the Curse: The Business of Menstruation (2006). She was the founder, executive editor, and a contributor to re:Cycling, a blog of the Society for Menstrual Cycle Research for five years from 2009-2014. She has served as a leader within professional organizations, including as president of the Society for Menstrual Cycle Research from 2009-2011.

Kissling served in leadership roles within the university on many occasions. Noteworthy examples include her terms as President and Vice President of the EWU Faculty Organization from 2006-2008, her work on the General Education Committee from 2014-2017, and numerous stints as a faculty senate representative.

Kissling was an innovative and effective professor and often taught the GWSS senior capstone. In addition to being a valuable resource in the classroom, Dr. Kissling also contributed to student learning by developing new courses and participating in curriculum reform. She supported students in attending and organizing conferences, mentored student clubs and individual students, and consistently received glowing accolades from her mentees.

Theresa Martin

Theresa Martin, Ph.D., has served as professor of Psychology since 1991. She completed her PhD in Psychology with specializations in Social Psychology and Health Psychology, her MS in Psychology, and her BS with distinction in Psychology at Iowa State University.

Dr. Martin has held many positions of leadership during her over 30 years of tenure at EWU, including Director of the Office of Institutional Research, Demography, and Assessment from 2001 to 2009, Chair in the Department of Psychology on two separate occasions, and active member and chair of the EWU Washington Institutional Review Board. During her many years with the board she developed a number of new practices to streamline reviews and facilitate sound research. Even beyond this, her contributions within the University have been exemplary and broad, including service on the Department Personnel Committee, Graduate Affairs Council, College Personnel Committee, College Assessment Committee, McNair Scholars Board, Student Academic Integrity Committee, and Academic Appeals Board to name a few. She is well regarded for her dedication to service and her students. Her scholarship focused primarily on pedagogical approach and strategies to enhance teaching, but at the same time provided countless opportunities for undergraduate and graduate students to experience the process of research, igniting a passion for many. Students have routinely spoken of the incredible learning opportunities that Dr. Martin's courses provided. In one year alone she mentored over 27 students presenting at the EWU Research and Creative Works Symposium. In terms of teaching, Dr. Martin has developed and brought to the department courses that represent currency and importance within the field, including Health Psychology, Cultural Psychology, Human Sexuality, and Advanced Social Psychology. She has developed and taught over 20 different courses to support undergraduate and graduate students in the department and was one of the first in the department to provide online offerings. Dr. Martin has been invaluable for energizing students in the practice of research while also enhancing their preparation for graduate training and future vocation.

Susan Megaard

Susan Megaard has been a Professor of Taxation and Accounting for 37 years. Before joining the faculty of EWU, she worked as an Attorney-Advisor in the United States Tax Court in Washington D.C. and as a tax and business attorney with law firms in Seattle and Spokane. She earned her JD degree from the University of Washington School of Law in Seattle, Washington; and her Master of Laws in Taxation degree from Georgetown University in Washington D.C.

Megaard has earned outstanding teaching evaluations from her students, colleagues, and members of the professional accounting community since she began teaching courses in federal income taxation and business law in the fall of 1984. During her career, Megaard also taught CPA Review course sections on taxation and Corporate and Partnership Taxation to students at Gonzaga University's School of Business.

Megaard has received numerous outstanding teaching awards from the EWU College of Business and both the CenturyTel Faculty Achievement Award and the PTI Pacificorp Foundation Faculty Achievement Award.

Megaard has maintained currency in her tax courses through constant changes in the tax law and has trained students and practicing CPAs to do federal tax research using both online databases and other sources. An integral part of maintaining currency in the tax field and improving her teaching has been frequent speaking engagements on new federal tax developments to practicing accountants and lawyers throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Megaard has made extensive research contributions in the field of taxation, including two portfolios on depreciation recapture published by the Bureau of National Affairs; numerous articles published in the Journal of Taxation, Journal of Corporate Taxation, Journal of Real Estate Taxation, Taxation for Accountants, Taxation for Lawyers, Practical Tax Strategies, and the Review of Taxation for Individuals. Megaard earned the college's Research Excellence Award in both 1999 and 2006.

Patricia Nemetz Mills

Patricia Nemetz Mills earned her PhD in Operations Management, Strategy, and Organization Theory from the University of Washington. She was hired at Eastern Washington University as an assistant professor of management in 1989, and was promoted to full professor in 2001. Nemetz Mills has taught such classes as Operations Analysis, Total Quality Management, Operations Management, Manufacturing Strategy, Business Strategy, and Organization Theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Her contributions to the university in the area of service were numerous and included a term as department chair and serving as the interim assessment coordinator for the business programs. Nemetz Mills was part of a team that created distance-learning innovations with Active Learning Technologies, Inc. and Prentice-Hall. In addition, she taught special seminars and graduate classes in Bulgaria and the former Yugoslavia in 1990 and 1991.

Her research interests include determining processes necessary to introduce technology and advanced automation into educational and manufacturing organizations, and investigating the impact of domestic and international cultural values on organizational needs and investment potential. Her work was recognized at the national level with a best paper award for interdisciplinary research from the Decision Sciences Institute and a best paper award for social issues in management from the Academy of Management. She has received several awards for teaching and research, including College of Business Teaching Excellence awards and the PTI Pacificorp Faculty Achievement Award.

In addition to academic experience, Nemetz Mills has industrial experience including working as a project engineer for Air Products and Chemicals and as a consultant to such companies as Boeing, Spokane Auto Transport, and Eldec. She has been active at coordinating the Spokane Quality Forum for the American Society for Quality and has made numerous presentations to professional organizations. In 1998, she was named a member of International Who's Who Among Professionals.

Jane T. Pimentel

Jane T. Pimentel, PhD joined Eastern Washington University's Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders in a tenure-track position in 1999 and was awarded tenure and promotion to Associate Professor in 2004; subsequently she was awarded Full Professor in 2016 and retired January 2021. Her area of expertise is in neurologically based communication impairments with a special interest in communication participation of individuals with aphasia and cognitive-communication disorders second to dementia. Dr. Pimentel taught courses and supervised clinical experiences in this area of expertise (e.g., aphasia, cognitive-communication disorders). She holds Board Certification from the Academy of Neurologic Communicative Disorders and Sciences. Additionally, she holds the Certificate of Clinical Competence in Speech-Language Pathology, and a Washington State Speech-Language Pathologist license. Previous to her position at EWU she was on faculty at Idaho State University. Prior to her academic career Dr. Pimentel worked as a Speech-Language Pathologist in rehabilitation settings.

Jane continues to serve as a volunteer presenter and support group facilitator on behalf of the Washington State Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association and is a member of St. Aloysius Catholic community.

Donald C. Richter

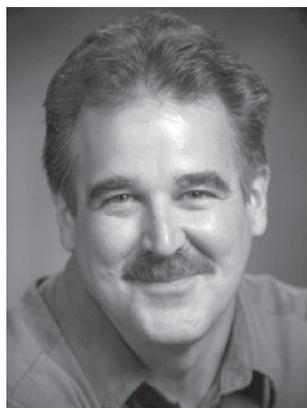

Donald C. Richter, PhD, is a professor of Mechanical Engineering and Mechanical Engineering Technology. After working for over 20 years as an engineer in industry, he has given back to the engineering profession by teaching 23 years at Eastern Washington University. In addition to developing several new courses at EWU, he developed the industrial robotics and automation laboratory and corresponding classroom courses at EWU, bringing a "real world" robotics and automation experience to engineering students. Working with local and national industrial partners, he secured equipment donations for the robotics laboratory. These donations have allowed the students to gain experience with industrial robotic vision systems, which prepares them for the global workplace as engineers. Richter introduced 3D parametric computer modeling to the university with a software grant for 3D parametric modeling software. He also served as the director of the Mine Safety and Health Program

(MSHA), which trains miners in mine safety. He has received grants from the Department of Labor's MSHA State Grants program, and was Co-PI on a Society of Manufacturing Engineer's grant in support of the department's labs. Richter has either authored or co-authored 28 peer-reviewed papers that have been published in conference proceedings for the American Society of Engineering Education and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Richter has been active in the EWU community serving as a judge for state and regional level student competitions. His awards include the Eastern Washington University Trustees Medal for most outstanding faculty 2016, the CenturyTel Foundation Faculty Achievement Award for outstanding faculty member of his college in 2001, and the American Society of Engineering Education's best paper at the 2005 Annual Conference for the PIC II Division. Richter was a registered professional engineer in mechanical engineering in Arkansas, Arizona and Louisiana. He also was a registered environmental engineer in Louisiana. Richter has served in the past as the Department Chair of the Department of Engineering and Technology and has also served as the program director for the Mechanical Engineering and Mechanical Engineering Technology programs.

Paul H. Schimpf

Paul received the BSEE (Summa Cum Laude) from UW (Seattle) in 1982. He worked at Honeywell Marine Systems from 1983 to 1997, during which time he earned his MSEE (1987) and PhD (1995), worked on the cutting edge of electronics, earned several technical achievement awards, and attained the rank of Senior Principal Engineer.

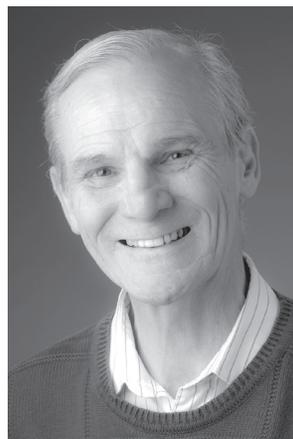

Paul first came to EWU in 1998 as a Visiting Professor. In Fall 2000 he was recruited to lead the Spokane Intercollegiate Computer Engineering program for WSU, where he earned his tenure. He returned to EWU as an Associate Professor in 2007, initially serving as Chair of Computer Science for 8 years, during which time he achieved the rank of Professor.

Paul's scholarly achievements include 48 peer-reviewed journal publications, 26 conference papers and abstracts, and one book, with 1588 citations to date. He has been a recipient of two NSF grants as Principal Investigator, one NSF grant as Co-Principal Investigator, one NSF grant as an Investigator, one SIRTI grant as an Investigator, and seven EWU grants.

Paul especially enjoyed his career as an educator, where he strived to provide a unique, understandable, and practical view of challenging topics informed by his industry experience. He is proud of his time at EWU providing an education to many hard-working students with few other options for higher education. As an educator Paul advised one PhD student, 34 Master's students, received a Certificate of Excellence in Education from the ASWSU and a Faculty Excellence award from WSU.

Paul is also an avid Fly Fisher and in 2004 received a Fly Tying award from the Spokane Fly Fishers.

Bill Stimson

Dr. Bill Stimson's association with Eastern Washington University began during his undergraduate years. He became editor of The Easterner and wrote clever, prolific columns for the paper. In those years, he developed a deep and lasting commitment to Eastern and to our journalism program.

After he graduated from Eastern in 1969, Professor Stimson worked as a journalist for 15 years and then went on to earn masters and doctorate degrees in American history from Washington State University. He returned to Eastern in 1989. He taught in the journalism program and served as program director off and on for 31 years. He also served as adviser to The Easterner and chair of the EWU Board of Student Publications.

Professor Stimson is a respected local historian and a fearless community activist. He also has been a gifted advocate for the role journalism plays in strengthening a democracy. He served as managing editor of Spokane Magazine and worked as a writer and an editor at WSU. He's written articles for publications ranging from The Inlander to the New York Times, and he's written three books, including a history of Spokane. In 2018 WSU recognized his writings in regional history and advocacy of historic preservation with an Alumni Achievement Award.

Professor Stimson quickly built a lasting reputation as an engaging speaker and a generous teacher. With his rich background in the history of the U.S. and its news media, he would display instant recall of a wide range of pertinent theories, principles and historical lessons, especially related to contemporary issues in journalism law, ethics, media literacy and propaganda. Students who sought his help with their own writing craft were never turned away.

Professor Stimson has made a deep and lasting impact on our students, the EWU Journalism Program, The Easterner, the English Department, and the University. We have been richer for his long service, his unwavering support, and his amazing gifts.

David Terpstra

David Terpstra earned his PhD in industrial/organizational psychology from the University of Tennessee. He was hired at Eastern Washington University as an assistant professor of management in 1999, and was promoted to full professor in 2008. Over a long career, Terpstra has contributed in all areas to the betterment of our university. His teaching has anchored our Human Resources degree program, where he developed and taught most of the advanced elective courses for many years. Prior to joining Eastern, Terpstra taught at the University of Mississippi, the University of Idaho, University of Illinois and Washington State University.

In research, his career has been exceptional. He has a long list of publications, including several highly cited articles in top-journals. Overall, his work has been cited 4,786 times, with fourteen articles having been cited more than one-hundred times each. His most cited article has been cited 995 times, alone. His contribution to the field of human resources is outstanding. In the process, he has brought recognition to our university, and has ensured that our students have been taught by an individual at the forefront of the field of Human Resources.

In terms of service, Terpstra regularly served in leadership capacities, often having been involved in chairing department review committees, and having served also on college-level curriculum review.

Throughout his career, Dr. Terpstra has demonstrated excellence in teaching, intellectual contributions, and service to the University and community at large.

Elizabeth Tipton

Elizabeth Tipton earned her PhD MSIS business statistics from the University of Texas at Austin. Hired at Eastern Washington University as an assistant professor of decision science in 2001, she was promoted to full professor in 2010. During her 20 years at Eastern, Tipton worked tirelessly to develop the analytics programs. She was the primary faculty member involved in the development of the widely-recognized, innovative partnership between Eastern's analytics program and Microsoft. Tipton's reputation and relationships in the community led to the development of collaborative projects where students work with local, national and international organizations to solve real-world problems, gaining valuable experience to help them succeed in a competitive marketplace.

Colleagues say Tipton is an excellent instructor who not only continuously seeks the best approaches and materials for teaching, but also makes the best, often extra, effort to help. She puts a considerable amount of time into recruiting, meeting personally with prospective students interested in data analytics. Tipton is known for being extremely knowledgeable in her field, while also being approachable. Her students appreciate her willingness to go above and beyond for anyone who asks for a helping hand. For many, she is more than a professor—she is a mentor and a friend to all.

Tipton has served in many roles during her career at Eastern, including department chair, interim associate dean, and interim dean. She served on numerous committees at the college and university. Tipton has also made significant professional contributions at the national and international level in research and scholarship by presenting, publishing, editing, and conference hosting in the areas of simulation, pedagogical game design, data visualization, and dental hygiene.

Her undergraduate data analytics students were mistaken for ABDs at a professional data analytics conference in Bellevue, which made her very proud of them and our faculty.

Ann O'Kelley Wetmore

Ann O'Kelley Wetmore is a Professor in Dental Hygiene. She is an alum via her 1977 Bachelor of Science in Dental Hygiene (BSDH) and earned her Master of Science in Dental Hygiene (MSDH) from Idaho State University in 2008. She taught online graduate courses in the EWU MSDH program and BSDH undergraduate content including didactic and clinical throughout her teaching career at EWU. Her expertise includes curriculum and course design, program development, leadership, professionalism, thesis introduction, and administration, management, and organization, nutrition, women's health, advocacy, eating disorders, and pharmacology. She received the 2014 Chair's Excellence in Teaching Award for the College of Science, Health, and Engineering and EWU Professor of the Year in 2011.

She fulfilled administrative appointments as Program Director of the Bachelor of Science in Dental Hygiene Degree Completion program since 2009, Chair of the Dental Hygiene Department from 2015-19, Program Director for the Bachelor of Science in Health Science since 2018, and Interim Chair of the Public Health and Health Administration Department in 2020-21. In these roles she was a change agent in developing curriculum for the BSDH and BSHS, moving the degree completion program online, spearheading the semester conversion of all Dental Hygiene programs, overseeing a successful reaccreditation for the undergraduate BSDH program, moving dental hygiene to paperless, updating the infection control protocols, implementing a holistic admission process in DH, and leading the conversion of the MPH to the AP platform.

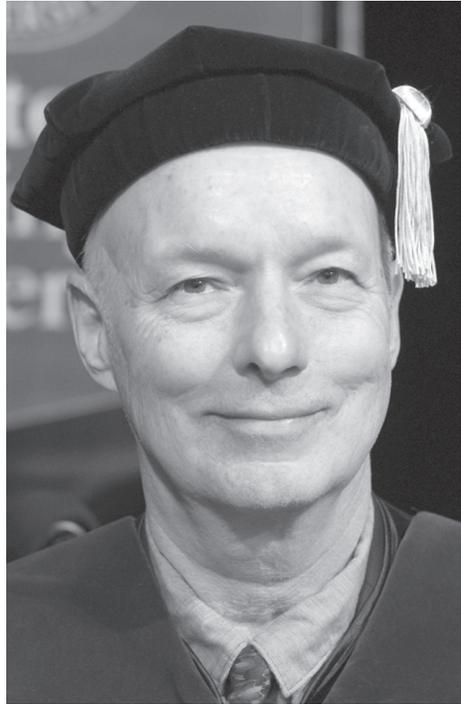

She published on the use of blogs as a framework for implementing effective reflective learning, eating disorders, and interprofessional education. She has mentored thesis students on diverse topics. Her forte is presenting, she has delivered invited and peer reviewed workshops and continuing education sessions on critical thinking, curriculum mapping, syllabus development, eportfolios, authentic assessment, women's health, eating disorders, nutrition, and the dental hygiene process of care.

Service for Professor O'Kelley Wetmore includes membership and chairing the EWU UAC and CPAC, serving as DH Senator, participating in numerous adhoc committees at the President's request. She chaired national meeting planning and scholarship committees. She currently serves as a site consultant for the Commission on Dental Accreditation.

TRUSTEES' MEDAL AWARD

The Trustee's Medal Award is the university's highest form of recognition for faculty achievement. Each year since 1978, the award has honored teaching excellence, significant contributions to scholarship and research, and accomplishments in the development of academic programs and curriculums. The award consists of a silver medallion and a $1,500 cash prize from the EWU Foundation.

Kerry Brooks, PhD

Kerry Brooks, PhD, director of Urban and Regional Planning Programs at EWU, is highly regarded for his teaching excellence, his contributions in research and scholarship, and his influential work in the development of learning processes, programs and curricula at Eastern. He also serves as a tremendous mentor and advocate for the students who pass through his program.

Dr. Brooks has published his research consistently and extensively in a variety of academic journals, and has presented his research findings at meetings and conferences in both across the United States and abroad. Just as impressive is Brooks' service to the planning profession and presence in the community, whether it be consulting/advising for local and state planning departments, environmental planning organizations or private firms. He has and continues to serve on or chairs a wide variety of boards for professional organizations, task forces, and committees. For instance, he contributed to the development of the City of Spokane Pedestrian Master Plan – a recipient of the Governor's Smart Communities Award in 2016.

While a graduate student at the University of Washington,

Brooks earned both a master's degree in urban planning (1983) and a doctorate in urban design and planning (1991). He has been a professor and director of urban planning at Eastern since 2013.

"Dr. Brooks work speaks to our EWU mission of transforming our region," wrote faculty member Margo Hill, of the Tribal Planning Program with Urban & Regional Planning. "Kerry maintains an excellent relationship with the planning professionals of the Inland Northwest. These amazing contacts help support our classes, provide mentorship and these planning professionals hire our students."

Teal Delys, a 2019 Master of Urban & Regional Planning graduate, worked with Brooks as a research assistant on the North Spokane Corridor Project. "Dr. Brooks is not only committed to providing opportunities for students to connect with professional planners and developing the skills they need in the job market," Delys said, "but he also imbues planning values into students that have lasting impacts on the communities we go on to serve."

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARDS

The Distinguished Service Awards are given each year to recognize exemplary service and outstanding contributions to the university. Letters of nomination and support are reviewed by the University Medals and Awards Committee.

Sam Buzby

Administrative Exempt

The look and feel of EWU—the impression the university makes on prospective students, incoming faculty and staff members, and the general public—has a profound effect on the campus community and the wider region. The person behind every web click, video spot, email blast and so much more? Sam Buzby.

“Sam lives and breathes Eastern Washington University,” says Lance Kissler, the associate vice president for University Relations. “Not only as a stellar employee, but also a proud alumnus and supporter.”

For more than 15 years, first as a student employee and now as the director of marketing, Buzby has been dedicated to advancing the Eastern brand. He’s worked as a graphic designer and a web designer, redesigned EWU’s websites multiple times, developed email campaigns to improve campus communications, and established Eastern’s first social media accounts. His forward-thinking innovations ensure that people see EWU as a driving force in the region.

Buzby also makes the Eastern community stronger by personifying the Eagle characteristics of grit, grace, gratitude and greatness—often while doing multiple jobs at once.

“I have seen him power through one problem after another,” says Meg Lybbert, a digital content strategist and EWU lecturer. “At times, when others would have thrown in the towel altogether, Sam has used the towel to sop up messes and plug holes until a permanent solution could be found.”

The employees on Buzby’s team say he unfailingly inspires and motivates them. He is always the first to celebrate their successes and milestones, they add, while working hard to ensure that his team and other campus departments focus on what matters most—supporting EWU students.

“He impressed upon me from the start that our mission as staff is to help students achieve their educational goals and build a foundation for lifelong success,” says Will Hall, a senior web developer. “I distinctly remember him saying, ‘It’s all for the students,’ several times in my first days on the job.”

The award includes the Distinguished Service Award medallion and a check for $1,000. These awards were presented in December 2020.

Colleen Hegney

Classified Staff

The melodies coming from the EWU Music Building might not be as sweet if it weren’t for the support, dedication and care that Colleen Hegney brings to work every day.

Hegney is the beloved and longtime secretary for Eastern’s Music Department, most recently transitioning into a new position as secretary for Fine and Performing Arts. She’s been with the university for more than 40 years—starting in 1979. During that time, she’s had a positive impact on hundreds of faculty members and thousands of students.

“She never refuses anyone who asks for help. If a student comes in with a problem or seeming upset, she stops and listens and offers what she can to help them,” says Jody Graves, a professor of music and piano studies. “I can attest that her impact on students and faculty has resulted in lifelong relationships with former faculty, alumni and donors.”

Patrick Winters, a retired EWU professor and former music department chair, adds that Hegney has counseled countless students and faculty as they’ve navigated the complexities of university life. “She has been the ‘rock’ that so many have relied on for her dedication, compassion, guidance and friendship,” Winters says.

Hegney’s dedication extends far beyond nine-to-five business hours. She has attended nearly all of the department’s ensemble concerts, gala events, student degree recitals, and faculty recitals throughout her long tenure. Her planning helps ensure that performances run smoothly, and she consistently volunteers to help with concert receptions, move instruments and equipment, and clean-up afterward. Her support at every level means the world to students.

“There have been numerous occasions where she has reached out in the most loving and caring way to students individually when they are having difficulties in their personal life,” says Christian Skok, a junior at EWU. “Her dedication to the music department has been an absolute blessing, and we would not be where we are today without this invaluable member of our music department family.”

2020-2021 FRANCES B. HUSTON MEDALLION AWARDS

Frances Breitweg Huston circa 1955

The Frances B. Huston Medallion Recognizes Graduating Seniors for Excellence in Academics, Leadership, and Service.

Frances Breitweg Huston was born in Vancouver, Washington, Aug. 13, 1912. She grew up in Portland, Oregon, and received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Reed College in 1931, and her Master of Arts in English Literature from the University of Washington (1947/1948). In 1955, Graham Dressler, PhD, professor of English at what was then Eastern Washington College of Education, offered Huston a position teaching English and English as a second language. Huston joined EWU's faculty in the fall of 1955 and taught until her retirement in academic year 1975/1976.

The Frances B. Huston Medallion Award was established in 1998 by a gift from Mary Ann Nelson, EWU professor of English emerita, as a tribute to Huston's lifelong commitment to education and a generosity to students that was quiet but ongoing. The medallion award program recognizes outstanding graduates and reflects Huston's compassion and respect for what education can do for an individual and a community. This award is presented to only 20 graduating students each year.

Recipients of the Frances B. Huston Medallion Award will have established themselves as exceptionally capable individuals in both academic and extracurricular activities. The faculty and administration of Eastern Washington University acknowledge their great pride in the accomplishments of these students during their college experience and expect even greater accomplishments in the years that lie ahead.

To be eligible to receive the award, students must

- be graduating seniors;
- have demonstrated outstanding academic achievement with a minimum of a 3.75 GPA in their previous four quarters; and
- qualify for the award in one or more of the following areas: leadership, service to the university and/or service to the community.

University College interacts with almost all students on campus – either through the General Education program that it administers or the myriad opportunities open to all students. Through University College students can engage with the community, enroll in Honors, do grant funded research with McNair, study abroad or participate in the Student Research and Creative Works Symposium.

Students who have come to Eastern Washington University from another country are supported and served by the School of Global Learning, also in University College.

University College is seen as the place for Honors and opportunity by students on the campus. They are encouraged to move between the various units like McNair, Honors, or the Symposium to complete and present research. As Honors moved to a social justice, civic responsibility, and community engagement model they will more closely connect service learning to their classroom coursework.

In the academic year 2018-2019, University College oversaw the revision of Breadth Area Course Requirements for students. These revisions will ensure that all students are creative and analytical thinkers, are information and quantitatively literate, and can write about complex issues. In the academic year 2019-2020 University College oversaw faculty's revision of Global Studies and Cultural Diversity courses, empowering students to be citizens with a broad understanding of their communities and the world.

As University College serves as an incubator for new ideas in Honors and General Education, it also offers faculty a place to come together, synthesize, and share knowledge in the Faculty Commons within University College. This year's workshops have highlighted inclusive teaching methods, designed to support the diversity of students we attract to campus.
