

Denise M. Seabert, PhD, MCHES®, FASHA, FESG

Denise Seabert, PhD, has been preparing health teachers and providing inservice trainings for teachers and other school personnel for more than 20 years. Her career has been dedicated to professional preparation of health educators through service to state and national organizations and initiatives as well as textbook authorship. Denise provided leadership in Indiana's obesity prevention efforts, HIV education for teachers, and academic standards for health and wellness. She has served on the Board of Directors for the American School Health Association, Eta Sigma Gamma National Health Education Honorary, National Committee on the Future of School Health, and the National Commission for Health Education Credentialing. She currently serves as Dean, College of Health and Human Services at Fresno State and is a member of the Board of Directors for United Way of Fresno and Madera Counties.

Denise received her BAEd in School Health Education from Western Washington University, MS in School and College Health from Indiana University, and PhD in Health Behavior with a minor in Curriculum from the University of Florida.